COHEN'S TOWERS™

By Frank Cohen

Help Allen, the mailboy, on his rise up the corporate elevator!

COHEN'S TOWERS™

MEMORANDUM

TO: Allen, my nephew.

FROM: The Boss

Here's what I'm going to do . . . I'll start you out as a trainee in the Mail Room. One of the most important jobs in the corporate structure, my boy. The mail must be delivered! If you do a good job (and don't play around with my secretary, Arlene) you may get promoted to one of the two other buildings.

One word of warning. My cousin-in-law, Bobby, has been known to steal the mail. We jokingly refer to him as the "Corporate Spy." If he wasn't related to my wife I would have fired him long ago — but he's harmless. Just be on the watch and catch him before he gets away with the mail!

Good luck, Allen. I know you can handle the job!

P.S. My dog, Fear, might get in your way once in awhile. Just jump over him. He means well.
